

Every promise is debt

Author: Manuel Date: 15 April 2013

The motto says "Every promise is debt", and the little Suarez has kept faith to his commitment. The young athlete of Spello respected the prediction that saw him as the protagonist at the recent Italian Cadets Championships held Saturday, April 6 in Ostia, getting a well-deserved silver medal in the 50 kg category. Jordy Pino Suarez, just 14 years old, beginners class, managed to establish himself in a difficult category taking home an important result in a competition reserved to the cadets class. Under the leadership of long-time wrestler, George Mosquera Ruiz, the young athlete of the team of the brothers Famà, has collected a success that projects him to the top of national competitions. Given the excellent result, a call from the national team is expected. Jordy is already mentally prepared for the next round of Saturday, April 20 in Ostia, where he will compete in the Italian Cadets Championships of Greco-Roman wrestling. "I am aware of the importance of the result - said the young fighter - but I am convinced that I can improve. I'm having fun doing Greco-Roman wrestling, the trainings are intense and tiring, but I do not mind sweating and working hard on the mat." Good also the performance of his cousin Fernando Lenin Mosquera, who faced the Italian champion and the third place winner. The Kodokan Spello is always getting a greater protagonist in the discipline of Greco-Roman wrestling and the achievements reached demonstrate the seriousness and commitment in this sport.